PASADENA NEWS.

WHAT A DAY MAY BRING FOR THE

The Water Company and the City—A Marriage Ceremony—A Lecture on Ancient Athletics—The Citizens' Banquet—A Grateful Acknowledgment—Local Fountain—Personal Mention.

PASADENA, Oct. 15. —[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Every one in this city probably remembers of the threatened war, between the directors of the Pasadena Lake Vineyard Company and the city, in the matter of the right of the city to use its water free of cost for sprinkling purposes. In this connection it must be said that the Orange Grove Company, which furnishes water to the West Side, has not decided to ask payment of the city, but has consented to furnish the water in consideration of the city having fixed the rate to be charged to consumers. The following is an outline of the report made by the City Attorney at the last meeting of the board. He quotes the law on the subject, and it is published by request of stockholders of the company and many citizens:

THE OPINION.
The use of water for sale, rental or distribution is a public use and is subject to regulation and control of the State as must be prescribed by law.

By general law a water company has no right to arbitrarily fix its own water rates, but the power is delegated to the Board of Trustees of the city, and it is not for the company to say what any one public or private must pay.

Each year a new ordinance is requisite to fix the rates and any attempt of the company to arbitrarily fix a rate and collect without the rate having been first fixed by the Board of Trustees renders the company liable to forfeit its franchise to the city for the public use.

The charge for furnishing water for street sprinkling is a proper charge against the city legally; as to the policy of making the charge that is not for discussion here.

GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGMENT.
By request the following grateful notice is inserted for publication. The public is too well acquainted with the history of the Heaton tragedy for any repetition to be made:

We, the undersigned, in behalf of Mrs. Heaton, wish to convey her sincere and heartfelt thanks to all those who, by their actions and words, showed their deep sympathy for her, in her great affliction and sufferings. She would like to thank each and all individual who, in any way, rendered her special attention to be made of John S. Withers by whom prompt answer to her cries for help was sent from the home of Mrs. Heaton, Kimball, who so generously at once threw their house open and gave every aid in their power during the worst of her sufferings.

Dr. J. S. Hodge, for his constant attention, kind sympathy and generosity.
Mrs. G. A. Gilman, Mrs. Taber and Miss Tilton, for their unceasing and gentle care she feels she owes so speedily a recovery.

Meas. Lippincott and Son for their special kindness and generosity.

And all the ladies who from day to day have visited her and done their best to ease her from suffering on her bed of affliction. She feels herself greatly privileged while so deeply afflicted such truly spiritual neighbors.

Mrs. JAMES SMITH.
WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH.

Justice P. R. V. Van Doren was called down on South Raymond avenue on a peculiar errand at 8 o'clock this evening. After being ushered into the presence of a group of happy people he was asked to stand up and quite in the holy bonds of wedlock Will B. Parker, formerly of the Brunswick Billiard parlors, and Mrs. F. M. Simmons, an old-time acquaintance of Oregon. The Judge performed the ceremony with neatness and dispatch, although this was his first attempt in the matrimonial line. After the couple had been made husband and wife, the guests present partook of refreshments to which all did justice. On Wednesday evening the newly-married pair will leave for San Francisco and the north, where they expect to locate.

LOCAL MENTION.

The lodge of Odd Fellows will confer the third degree on one member on Thursday evening.

A party of Pasadena, who have been spending a large portion of the summer in Chicago, are looking toward home. They don't like the cold weather.

D. S. Bassett, the Fair Oaks avenue tonsorial artist, is all smiles today, and reads his TIMES upside down. It is a girl baby.

The wheelmen of the city are discussing the matter of giving a very select ball at an early date.

A business meeting of the members of the Cosmos Club will be held in the parlors of the California Hotel on Friday evening, followed by the rendition of several musical selections.

Capt. Cross was in town today, and reports work progressing nicely on his road. It will be, however, completed before December.

Rev. A. Dinsmore and wife of Alhambra celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding yesterday. In the evening a large party of friends helped them remember the event with pleasure and feasting.

A citizens' banquet will take place at the Painter Hotel on Friday evening. It will be after the manner of last winter's feast, and a number of toasts bearing on local subjects will be assigned. The banquet which was held on Washington's birthday at the same place, under the auspices of the Board of Trade, was attended by 108 leading citizens, and this feast promises to have a much larger number present.

ANCIENT ATHLETICS.
The members of the Pickwick Club and their friends were highly entertained last evening with a lecture on "The Athletics Practiced by the Greeks and Romans," by Frank J. Polley, Esq.

The speaker began his extemporaneous address by a reference to the superiority of those old-time athletes over those of the present day, and by saying that hardly a sport was indulged in today which was not known in some form or other in the back ages.

The indomitable courage of the Greek athlete, the rough but hardy treatment he was subjected to in preparation for the eventful day, the probationary period, and the 30 days' off-practice before skilled examiners, were among the subjects treated at the hands of the scholarly gentleman.

But the crowning glory of the plucky athlete was at hand, his day to go forth and win the crown of a simple garland of olive branches, where he better displayed than where the hero comes forth in the Olympian and Isthmian contests to try conclusions in wrestling, boxing, quoit-pitching, chariot-racing, etc.

After a reference to the manner of acting on the defensive and offensive, the young speaker paid a high compliment to Milo of Croton and his gigantic feats, not forgetting to mention his death by having his hands caught in a tree, which he had hoped to rent asunder, so great was his strength.

Coming down to the time of the Romans, he alluded to the gladiatorial combats and their method of being conducted. In conclusion, he emphasized the fact that there was a lack of interest at the present day in athletic sports, which, in the brazen days of Greece and Rome, made her men demi-gods.

PERSONAL.
D. F. Jones, an undertaker of Santa Ana, was in town today.

The mother of Mr. Daggett of Moline avenue arrived on the overland from the East this afternoon.

Theodore Coleman went down over the line of the Cross road this afternoon.

Miss Lillian Thomas, who has been the guest of Miss Helen Nelson, at the Southern, and Mrs. Dr. Michener, leave on Thursday for San Francisco.

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN.
Black Bart, the Famous Highwayman, said to Be in China.

It is reported from San Francisco, and it will be good news to all nervous stage passengers, that Charles E. Bolton, better known as "Black Bart," has left this part of the country.

Such is the firm belief of the many detectives and sheriffs interested in finding the celebrated robber. He is a most incorrigible outlaw, and no one will regret his disappearance.

His recent confinement of over four years in San Quentin apparently had no influence whatever in inducing him to alter his crooked ways.

Within six months after his release, in January, 1888, he was at his old tricks, and since then at least three robberies are known to have been his work. The officers who looked the cases up are thoroughly satisfied that he robbed the Ukiah, Shasta and Comptonville stages during the past year.

The Comptonville robbery was his last exploit. He then obtained a bar worth $2300, and the property of the express company. This has never been offered for sale, so far as known, and the presumption is that Bart has too much discretion to negotiate for it in this country. He is believed to have gone either to China or Australia.

The special officers of the express company have lately sent out a number of photographs of the "lone highwayman," and it is thought this agitation alarmed him and made him decide to take a foreign trip for his health.

Over thirty robberies of stages and express boxes, beginning in July, are attributed to Bart, but no shrewd was he that evidence sufficient to convict him was never obtained, except in two or three cases. When he was finally caught, in 1886, he pleaded guilty and secured a light sentence.

LAND OFFICE REPORT.
A Record of Three Months Through-out the State.

The San Francisco Land Office has compiled a statement of the business transacted in the State during the quarter ending September 30th. It is as follows: Number of acres sold, 36,519; amount received for same, $56,514.82. Fees on 202 homestead entries, $1556. Commissions on 20,007 acres sold as homesteads amounted to $1124. Twenty-three timber entries, embracing 8148 acres of land, were filed; also one coal land entry and one mineral land application recorded.

Government land was located in this district as follows: First quarter of 1888, 54,988 acres; second quarter, 59,026 acres; third quarter, 60,940 acres; fourth quarter, 55,889 acres; first quarter of 1889, 43,222 acres; second quarter, 42,282 acres; third quarter, 36,519 acres.

With, or Without Water.
[Beaumont Sentinel.]

There are today in the San Geronimo Valley 20,000 acres of tillable land, for which no irrigation water has yet been provided. Without water this land is adapted almost exclusively to the cultivation of barley. Each succeeding year the soil is losing its productivity for this crop, so that if confined to it much longer the land will either have to be summer fallowed, giving but one crop in two years, or yield less than a half crop each year. At 10 sacks to the acre (last year's average), at the average price of 85 cents per sack, the gross income per acre would be $8.50. Allow for plowing, etc., $1.50; seed, 85 cents; cutting, $1.25; threshing, $1; sacks, 80 cents; hauling, storage, etc., 60 cents, making the expense account $6. Which leaves a net balance per acre of $2.50.

This gives a per cent. interest on only $50 per acre. And this calculation is based on the almost impossible supposition that by some means the present average crop is secured for the time to come. Wheat crops might yield better returns, but there is greater expense and greater risk.

On the other hand, if water for irrigation were secured, nobody doubts that at least $150 per acre would be worth fruit-raising, and for alfalfa and other crops. Therefore, if water for 20,000 acres can be secured and piped to the land for anything less than $200,000, it would be a paying investment to secure the water. But instead of costing $100 on each acre of land to secure the water, it can be had in abundance for from $10 to $12.50 for each acre, making a net gain of at least $100 per acre or to the holders of 20,000 acres of $2,000,000.

Will anybody dispute these figures, or vote against forming an irrigation district?

Hidden Over by a Regiment.
[Berlin Dispatch to London Standard.]

An extraordinary story is told here of the miraculous escape of a woman and a little boy at Brieg. During the maneuvers there they got in front of a regiment of cuirassiers which was riding at full gallop. It was impossible for the woman to escape and for the soldiers to halt. The public raised a shout of horror, thinking woman and child would be trampled to death and the foremost officer called to her to lie down. This she did, placing the boy underneath her. The whole regiment rode over her, and as the horses were all made to leap over her, she was, to the astonishment of everybody, unhurt, although for some time she was speechless with terror.

Webfoot's Loss—California's Gain.
[The Oregon Statesman.]

When the survey of the State line between Oregon and California was made some 15 years ago the witness trees were mostly of a younger growth, and the prevalence of forest fires in recent years has about obliterated all traces of the survey. A party who recently took the contract for surveying five townships in Curry county was obliged to suspend operations, owing to there being no corner monuments remaining along the surveyed route of the State line.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Letter Day Saints.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Perhaps there are thousands of people in Los Angeles who are not aware that there is a branch of the "Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints" worshipping every Sabbath at No. 24 South Spring street, nevertheless it is a fact.

Their teachings correspond exactly with that of the ancient saints. They believe that the signs which the Savior said shall follow the believers should follow them, and all believers, if they have believed aright, inasmuch as the godlike reason and proof from persons, and without a shadow of turning.

They don't pay their ministers any salary, but they will keep a missionary's family while he is away from home preaching the gospel. The local ministers are expected to earn their daily bread like other men.

They are well-versed in scripture. If you oppose them you will be asked for your strong reasons and proof from the Bible. They are always ready to defend their faith, either in public or private. It is but fair and proper to state that they have nothing whatever to do with the Utah people. They believe in but one wife at one time.

There has been a great deal of prejudice against this people in the past, on account of that abominable doctrine—plural marriage, which was invented by Brigham Young and his fellows after the death of Joseph Smith, the founder of the church. But the people are learning to respect the "Reorganized Church," and they are respected as citizens because they keep the laws of the land, and they love to do so. They say that "he that keepeth the law of God hath no need to break the law of the land."

FRESH LITERATURE.
THE PHANTOM FUTURE. A Novel, By HENRY SEYMOUR MERRIMAN. New York: Harper & Bros. Publishers. (For sale by Stoll & Thayer, Los Angeles.)

This is an age of bookmaking and of romance. But there are books and there are books. "The Phantom Future" is a well-written and forcibly told tale which cannot fail to enlist the entire interest of the reader. It is one of the higher class of novels which are written for the purpose of illustrating some truth, or some phase of human character. The present story illustrates the possibility of a strong and self-sacrificing friendship existing among men.

It shows also that beneath a gay and careless exterior is hidden the seriousness of great purpose, and of rare genius, and that cynicism is often but a cloak which conceals large-hearted benevolence and genuine goodness of heart.

At a low price, it is a tale of tender pathos. One of the heroes loves a noble and beautiful girl, but being the victim of a dangerous heart malady he does not declare his love, feeling that his life hangs by a thread, and that early widowhood would be the portion of the sweet girl who is more to him than life, should she wed him.

There are many characters interwoven in the story, which has its dark pictures and its threads of light. It is real life, tenderly portrayed.

MARIE ANTOINETTE.
With the advent of October, 1793, the unfortunate Marie Antoinette was rapidly approaching her tragic end. Impulsive in her majestic sorrow, she did not complain and asked for no solace to be shown her. She was confined in a cell below the level of the water, the water trickled down the walls; a screen alone separated the Princess from the guardsmen, who never left her side or left her. "What does the widow Capet do in her prison?" they asked of her. "Ah, she is very much downcast," she answered. "A felage of the sun she mends her stockings at the level of the walk barefooted." Some mitigation to the lot of the prisoner had been given by the compassion of the jailors. One of them, a Swiss, had been appointed a rug for her. "You want to be guillotined then?" the public accuser

On the morning of October 14th the Queen was dragged before the Revolutionary Tribunal for a summary trial and pronounced at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of October 16th, after 12 hours which the Queen was taken back to the prison. In solitude she robed herself well in a white dress; her beautiful hair was bound up in white with sorrow. She wrote a letter to her daughter, which was not delivered. Her friends of soldiers were placed in the streets and the windows were pointed when Marie Antoinette was issued from her cell, at 11 o'clock in the morning, with neither carriage nor friendly confessor—only the revolutionary cart and the constitutional car. She pressed not a word to the priest. By the order of M^{rs}. Elizabeth she a secret absolution awaited her under an upper window. She followed with her looks the buildings along her route, as if to revive her recollection. "Long live the Republic!" cried the people, when her head fell under the guillotine. The old hatred broke out in these cries.

disseum, which cost £70,000. No private individual ever formed so expensive and valuable a collection. In 1758, when his brother, Dr. William Hunter, was a surgeon and lecturer of eminence, John was his principal assistant, helped him in making anatomic preparations. But he soon went far beyond his duties as an assistant, and examined all the living and dead animals he could get hold of, to compare their structure with the human body. If he made friends with the keepers of all the menageries, and lost no opportunity of profiting by the facilities thus afforded, many dogs, a dead dog, a sick lion, and all the rest were made contributory to the advancement of science in the hands of John Hunter. He took a house in Golden Square, London, in 1794, and then built a second house at Earls Court, where he might carry out experiments in science. Hunter spent more than fourteen years in building up a new system of physiology and surgery on the evidence furnished of specimens in his museum. The expenses thus incurred kept the Doctor always poor, although his income for many years before his death exceeded £5000 per year. By his will, the Government left the museum to the Government on the condition of a fair price being paid for it, and the sale was effected in 1829 for £10,000.

great museum was placed in the east of the Royal College of Surgeons, where it still remains.

THADDEUS KOSCIUSKO, the celebrated Polish general and patriot, was born of a noble family in Lithuania about 1750. After studying in the military academy in Versailles, he came to America about 1777, entered the American army and served with distinction during the remainder of the war. He participated in the Polish revolution of 1794, became commander-in-chief of the army, gained a brilliant victory over the Russians at Wlodek, but was defeated, wounded and taken prisoner at Maciejowice in 1794 and died in 1801.

two years. He was then released by the Emperor Paul. He afterward refused to promote the schemes of the Emperor Napoleon in reference to Poland. He abolished serfdom on his own estates. He died in Switzerland October 16, 1817.

ALBERT VON HALLER, a botanist, physiologist and poet, was born at Berne, Switzerland, October 16, 1768. He studied medicine and anatomy under Boerhaave and Albinus, at Leiden, subsequently under Winslow and Ledderhose, at Paris, and mathematics under Bernoulli, at Bale. After practicing medicine in his native city for several ars, he came professor of medicine, anatomy and botany in the university of Göttingen, a position which he relinquished in 1795, and until he was compelled to resign on account of ill-health. He was the author of many valuable scientific works, written in German, and of several poems in German. He was offered professorships in the universities of Oxford and Leyden; was elected a fellow of the Royal Society of London, and was invited to the court of Prussia by Frederick the Great. He died in 1777.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

The cases against Frank Lauterio, defaulting Deputy County Auditor, were yesterday postponed by Judge Cheney.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to David A. Norcross, aged 46, of Glendora, and M. Cecilia Klein, aged 34, of Covina.

Harvey Williams, convicted of robbing Charles Day of $65, was sentenced by Judge Shaw yesterday to 10 years in the penitentiary at San Quentin.

George Morris brought a Manning from Wilmington yesterday to the County Jail. He is under sentence to serve 20 days for obtaining goods under false pretenses.

Mrs. S. I. Mayo has entered an engagement with the University of Southern California to teach landscape painting in oil, and has established a studio in the city.

There are undelivered telegrams at the Western Union Telegraph office for Miss Flanagan, F. Backstein, A. H. Smith, W. R. Halzlip, successor to Westerhagen & Co.

Rev. Edward Thomson, D.D., of Los Angeles, will deliver an address at the Methodist Church, Santa Monica, next Friday evening, in the interests of the American Sabbath Union.

A runaway horse dashed up Main street at 3 p.m. yesterday, and while making the circle the courthouse he ran up Spring street and was captured before any serious damage was done.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. King, a bride and groom, aged respectively 39 and 70 years, are in the city today for a four-day tour. They were married two weeks ago in Philadelphia, and neither had ever been married before.

W. Miller, a chronic offender, was found very drunk near the Union Iron Works on Monday night. Judge Stanton sentenced him to serve 100 days in the County Jail, allowing him till midnight to leave the city.

A petition is in circulation for the pardon of John M. Foster, who was sentenced to State Prison for life for the killing of Henry Amador in 1883 in this city. The row occurred over a woman, and the woman was Amador's wife.

The funeral of William A. Hammel took place yesterday from the Cathedral, where a solemn high mass was given. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives of the deceased, and the services were very impressive.

Francisco Mandicolas disturbed the peace of her neighbors at Wilmington on Sunday last, and was sentenced to expiate her crime by remaining 10 days under Capt. Darcy's supervision. She was placed in his hands by Constable Morris yesterday.

Secretary Higgins of the Chamber of Commerce was made happy yesterday. The managers of the Downey fair sent him a carload of fruits and other products for the "Southern California on Wheels" exhibit. The consignment was sent north last night.

Robert Faulder, who was run over by the Jefferson street car on Monday evening last, was removed to the County Hospital yesterday. Dr. E. R. Smith, his regular physician, is attending him, and reported that he was doing fairly well yesterday evening.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Millie Olschlefsky, charging her with wandering about without proper guardianship. Mrs. Watson secured the girl a place, from which she ran away, and the complaint has been made for the purpose of getting her in proper hands.

Dr. Fresius, who, two weeks ago, was sentenced to serve 60 days in the County Jail for vagrancy, was granted a new trial yesterday by Judge Stanton. The judge, on the second trial, sentenced him to serve 90 days in the County Jail, but suspended sentence during his good behavior.

As the 13-year-old son of Mrs. Sebastian, who lives at 26 Temple street, was out in the country, yesterday, tending some horses, one of them kicked him and broke his leg. The lad was taken to his mother's home, and was there attended by Dr. Morrison, who set the injured member.

Pat Walsh, who on Saturday last broke a window in the Buena Vista street lodginghouse kept by Dominick Layronde, and was arrested on a complaint by the latter, was discharged by Judge Stanton yesterday. Walsh paid $2 for the damage, and as Layronde refused to prosecute he was compelled to pay the costs.

Last evening a shopkeeper's wagon belonging to Taggart & Bosch was crossing Fort street, at the corner of Third, the horse fell in front of a passing car (No. 70) and would have been struck but for the promptness and muscle of the gripman, who stopped his car when within a foot of the prostrate animal.

Margarita de Marietta, held by T. C. Bouldin, Justice of Azusa township to answer a charge of adultery in the Superior Court, was lodged in the County Jail by Constable Pollard yesterday. The complaint charges that Margarita has neglected the society of her husband, Guadalupe, for that of a man named Pedro Moranco.

A wagon from the Swiss dairy, drawn by a heavy pair of horses, came near being smashed up at the Wolf-skill depot last night. The horses became frightened and ran away, and had it not been for a young man in a fruit-stand, who jumped into the wagon and seized the reins, a general smashup would have taken place.

The regulation rifle practice of Company C, of the National Guard of California, took place at Pomona yesterday. Capt. Drissell was in command of the company, under Maj. Russell. The total number of members present was 68, and 59 of them used their rifles, averaging 32.4 per man. The best marksmanship was by a private, who scored within 82-100 of the best record ever made in California.

MOZART'S LOW PRICES.

It is Astonishing with What Rapidity It Becomes Known.

Every lady in town knows of Mozart's Popular Store. And why? Because of the fair and square method of doing business on small profits. No one offers fashionable millinery as low as every lady in justice to herself should call and see our Hats and learn our prices. Other departments are full of bargains. We are offering a corset worth $1 for 50c. Complete lines of ladies' Hosiery from $1.00 per pair. Children's Hosiery, a pair. Children's Hosiery, a pair. Children's Hosiery, a pair.

PEOPLE'S STORE.

A BENEFACTOR TO THE PEOPLE OF LOS ANGELES.

A Lady's Opinion of the Policy of a Leading Establishment—Bedrock Prices for the Masses.

Los Angeles, Oct. 16, 1929. We overheard a conversation recently, which does us good to repeat: Two ladies meeting and conversing in front of our store were heard to say: "This store," pointing to our establishment, "does more good to the people of our city than any institution in it. You can buy all things cheaper here than anywhere in the Union. I always patronize them, for I believe they act as a check-in on the other storekeepers—imagine the way prices would go up if it were not for this store!"

"That is true," the other lady said, "but I don't do business with them, for I believe they act as a check-in on the other storekeepers—imagine the way prices would go up if it were not for this store!"

"Well done," the first lady said, "but I don't do business with them, for I believe they act as a check-in on the other storekeepers—imagine the way prices would go up if it were not for this store!"
